

ANOTHER CHARACTERISTIC ROOSEVELT TALK YESTERDAY

The ex-President Is Given a Degree by Oxford and Delivers Forceful Address.

"In the last analysis, the all-important factor in national greatness is national character." "I belong to a nation which is trying on a scale hitherto unexampled, to work out the problems of government for, of, and by the people, while at the same time doing the international duty of a great power." "For nearly eight years I was the head of a great nation and charged especially with the conduct of its foreign policy; and during those years I took no action with reference to any other people on the face of the earth that I would not have felt justified in taking as an individual in dealing with other individuals."

doing the international duty of a great power. But there are certain problems which both of us have to solve, and as to which our standards should be the same.

"No hard and fast rule can be drawn as applying to all alien races, because they differ from one another far more widely than some of them differ from us. But there are one or two rules which must not be forgotten. In the long run, there can be no justification for one race managing or controlling another unless the management and control are exercised in the interest and for the benefit of that other race. This is what our peoples have in the main done, and must continue to do, in India, Egypt, and the Philippines alike. In the next place, as regards every race, everywhere, at home or abroad, we can not afford to deviate from the great rule of righteousness which bids us treat each man on his worth as a man. He must not be sentimentally favored because he belongs to a given race; he must not be given immunity in wrong-doing, or permitted to lumber the ground, or given other privileges which would be denied to the vicious and unfit among ourselves. On the other hand, where he acts in a way which would entitle him to respect and reward if he were of our own stock, he is just as much entitled to that respect and reward if he comes of another stock, even though that other stock produces a much smaller proportion of men of his type than does our own. This has nothing to do with social inequality. It has to do merely with the question of doing to each man and each woman that elementary justice which will permit him or her to gain from life the reward which should always accompany thrift, sobriety, self-control, respect for the rights of others, and hard and intelligent work to a given end. To more than such just treatment no man is entitled, and less than such just treatment no man should receive.

"The other type of duty is the international duty, the duty owed by one nation to another. I hold that the laws of morality which should govern individuals in their dealings one with the other are just as binding concerning nations in their dealings one with the other. "The foreign policy of a great and self-respecting country should be conducted on exactly the same plane of honor, of insistence upon one's own rights and of respect for the rights of others, as when a brave and honorable man is dealing with his fellows. Permit me to support this statement out of my own experience. For nearly eight years I was the head of a great nation and charged especially with the conduct of its foreign policy; and during those years I took no action with reference to any other people on the face of the earth that I would not have felt justified in taking as an individual in dealing with other individuals. "I believe that we of the great civilized nations of today have a right to feel that long careers of achievement lie before our several countries. To each of us is consigned the honorable privilege of doing his part, however small, in that work. Let us strive hard for success even if it is so doing we risk failure, sparing the poorer souls of small endeavor who know neither failure nor success. Let us hope that our own blood shall continue in the land, that our children and children's children to endless generations shall arise to take our places and play a mighty and dominant part in the world. But whether this be denied or granted by the years we shall not see, at least the satisfaction be ours that we have carried onward the lighted torch in our own day and generation. If we do this, then, as our eyes close, and we go out into the darkness, and other hands grasp the torch, at least we can say that our part has been borne well and valiantly."

ARE GETTING ENGLISH TRADE.

LONDON, May 7.—The United States is making a strong bid for the silk net lace trade, which used to be a Derby specialty. Eighteen machinists, three draughtsmen, and one designer sailed from Liverpool for Philadelphia recently to work in a factory there.

A Nottingham firm has received an order from America for sixty machines for making the lace, which is a new manufacture for the States.

A BROKEN-DOWN SYSTEM.

There is a condition of disease in which doctors give many names, but which few of them really understand. It is simply weakness—chronic weakness. As a rule, it is the result of that system of medicine, which is the cause of the disease. No matter what may be its cause, the symptoms are much the same. The more prominent being: nervousness, sense of prostration or weakness, depression of spirits and want of energy for all the ordinary affairs of life. Now, what does a broken-down system mean? It means a system which is broken down.

VITAL STRENGTH & ENERGY

As a result of these mental feelings, and experience in the use of the French remedy, the patient may be cured.

IS DEPORTED WITHOUT DOPE

Chinese Who Escapes Conviction of Crimes Is Ordered Sent Home.

Lean Hung, whom the federal petit jury found not guilty of violation of the antiopium law, was ordered deported yesterday by United States Commissioner A. E. Judd, as being in the country without a certificate. Hung demanded the fourteen tins of opium that were taken from him, but though he was found not guilty of having smuggled them, the demand was refused.

Letters From The People

TOWNSEND EXPLAINS.

Honolulu, June 7.

Editor, Pacific Commercial Advertiser, Sir:—In justice to myself and to clear any doubt, kindly allow me a space in your paper in regard to the finding of Japanese gamblers in police court yesterday morning. In the first place they were never tried having pleaded guilty to the charge of having been present. I spoke to the judge in regard to the two of the four Japanese defendants, to wit: Ogata and Morimoto, these two having been away to the island of Hawaii for the last three years. Ogata and Morimoto left Honolulu during March, 1907, and as soon as Mr. Taylor took office as chief of detectives these two got cold feet and left Honolulu. I saw them personally get away on Kinau. Morimoto came back some time last year, and as soon as he came back he was arrested by federal authority and have been in jail up to about a month ago. As to Ogata he only came back about ten days ago and therefore to my best knowledge and information they were before Judge Andrade for the first time since he took judgeship, although they appeared before Judge Whitney once or twice before they left Honolulu. To prove these facts I will call Mr. Taylor's attention, who was chief of detectives bureau at the time they left the island.

I challenge any person to go through police records to find names of these two defendants during last three years. I gave the information to the judge in open court because when Judge Andrade took the court for information in regard to the Japanese defendants no one knew anything about them. As to the other two Japanese defendants, I did not say anything because I did not know their records. Mr. Chillingworth, representing these Japanese defendants, made exactly the same statement as I did.

Mr. Editor, I always gave right information to the court whether a person be my friend or not, because court expects that I should know more about Japanese than any white or Chinese police officer. Furthermore, I will prove by Mr. Taylor, that during his administration of chief, Honolulu was pretty badly infected with Japanese gambling and had clubs of fighters which was all clean up, some going to jail and some leaving the island, and today almost all of the club members are reformed and leading respectable life in different parts of Hawaii.

Respectfully,
ED. TOWNSEND.

PLEAD NOT GUILTY
Manuel Richards and Edward Cluney Will Fight Their Cases.

Manuel Richards and Edward Cluney, the two chauffeurs accused by the grand jury of manslaughter because each had killed his man, both appeared in court before Judge Cooper yesterday and each pleaded not guilty to the charge against him. Judge Cooper set Richards' trial for June 23 and Cluney's for June 27.

Frank Thompson has been retained to assist the prosecution in the Richards' case. He will be opposed by Judge Edging. Cluney will be defended by Rawlins.
